Hongkong Telegraph.

HONGKONG, 1st JULY, 1881.

It has long been recognised as an incontrovertible fact that when the labor of a country is performed altogether, or in a very large measure, by a class of aliens, differing in origin from the inhabitants, that a tendency is generated to degrade the laboring class. Mr. Seward has no desire, and makes no attempt whatever to dispute this proposition; but emphatically asserts that it is the duty of all citizens, in such a case, to counteract the evil effects which may result, by all reasonable means; and suggests as the readiest means, the right instruction of youth, and of the less intelligent classes, in regard to the essential dignity of all honest, earnest and free labor. Unfortunately for Mr. Seward's theoretical notions of what is necessary to raise labor to the honorable position which all orators, statesmen, and other public men say it is fairly entitled to, mankind in general seldom care to practice what they preach. Acts of Congress have failed to induce the citizens of the United States to meet the negro on equal terms; and no legislation in the world can compel the Australians to look kindly on the Chinese laborers who are now spread over all parts of their continent. One of the great objections to Chinese laborers, advanced by the inhabitants of every state or country into which the sons of Han have been poured in almost countless thousands, and one which has caused legislators troubles innumerable, is the assertion that the Chinese, by their frugal style of living, have invariably displaced all other laborers. Mr. Seward devotes whole chapter to combating this objection, but with indifferent success; in fact, even admitting that, wherever the Chinese have settled they have, by their patience, perseverance, and extreme frugality, contributed largely to the material progress and prosperity, and probably to the convenience and comfort of a certain section of the people, Mr. Seward's superficial treatment of what is certainly one of the most important questions of the age in all rising countries, is the reverse of satisfactory. Mr. Seward states that it is the interest of the laborer that he should receive high wages, and that of the employer that wages should be low; and yet in the very next sentence he denies that the interests of these classes are antagonistic. It is a stale truism to tell us that wages should be so graded that industries may go forward; and the rest of the chapter is full of the same kind of meaningless twaddle. Again we are bound to differ with our author in his statement that the Chinese do not send considerable sums of money out of the various countries where they have temporarily settled, as our own experience of this part of the question, is diametrically opposed to his assertions. If it is a rule among laborers that they expend all their earnings to meet the demands of the moment, such rule certainly does not apply to the Chinese. Mr. Seward observes that there is no reason why Chinese should be exceptions to the rule, and therein he displays an ignorance of Chinese inner life, and of Chinese customs generally; truly lamentable in a man who has spent twenty years in China. To the objections which have been raised against Chinese emigrants on the ground that they are a vicious people, we give little heed, as it has been practically demonstrated, times out of number, that the Chinese are not much better, and very little worse than other nationalities. There can be no doubt that they are naturally a pacific and easily governed race of people, and we quite agree with Mr. Seward, that their general vices are certainly of a less dangerous character than those of white men. The charts, reprinted from the translations of Dr. Martin of the Peking University, which appear in "Chinese Immigration" are certainly interesting, as a faithful synopsis of the Confucian morals, but beyond that they are of little value as evidence that the moral virtues therein depicted, are generally practised either at home or abroad. Want of space prevents us from detailing at length the evidence produced regarding Chinese morality in California, so we must content ourselves with stating that as a general rule it is eminently favorable to the emigrants; and with quoting as an example the statement of Mr. Sneath, manager of the Merchants Bank, who said:—"I have been a merchant most of my time in California. I have dealt a great deal with Chinese, and with Chinese merchants in this city particularly. I have always found them truthful, honorable, and perfectly reliable in all their business engagements. I have done business with them to the amount of several millions of dollars. I have never had a single one of them fail to live up to his contract. I never lost a dollar by them in all my business with them." His estimate of the character of the Chinese merchant will be generally endorsed by those who have had dealings with them in Hongkong or elsewhere. Mr. Seward's references to Hongkong are complimentary both to the colony and to the Government. The number of foreign and native population is not much different from that at Shanghai, but as Hongkong is a British Colony the administration of affairs is simplified in consequence. He proceeds to say that every traveller will be able to tell how well the streets are kept, and how secure are life and property. Secret tribunals are never heard of, and as reasonably intelligent efforts are made to render the organisation which deals with the Chinese, competent for its work, and superior to temptation, the results have been such as to establish the fact that the Chinese are easily governed. As an independent expression of opinion, Mr. Seward's observations are of more than ordinary value, and they certainly form a pleasing contrast to the fawning sycophancy, and coarse vituperation which have so distinctively marked the public utterances for months past of our local newspapers on the same subjects. The objections which have been made against the Chinese as settlers on a foreign soil, on the grounds that they will not assimilate with our people; that prostitution, gambling, crimes of various descriptions, and diseases of a most loathsome character are prevalent amongst them, have all been ably discussed in Mr. Seward's comprehensive work, and we quite agree with his opinion that all the evils attendant upon the foregoing may be fairly and satisfactorily dealt with, within the lines of existing treaties. Part IV of our author's work deals with the fears entertained in America (and, as a matter of fact, elsewhere) of what has been termed an overflowing immigration of the Chinese. We do not propose following Mr. Seward through all the arguments he advances to dispose of this allegation, although many of them have such an important bearing on the current politics of Hongkong that we propose returning to the subject by and bye. In the meantime it is enough for us to know that from the time of the discovery of gold in California 30 years ago up to the present time, the Chinese population in America has never greatly exceeded 100,000 souls, whereas during the same period the immigration from the British Isles alone has aggregated over three millions of persons, and that from Germany more than two and a half millions. These figures are unanswerable. The last two chapters of "Chinese Immigration" are full of general interest; but our space will not permit us to more than briefly allude to their salient features. To our way of thinking it is clearly proved that the Chinese are not a migratory people, in fact their historical records bear ample testimony of their desire to remain within their own territories. The histories of Chinese conquests are alluded to, and the nature of the relations existing between the Empire and Corea, Lew Chew, Annam, Siam, and Burmah explained. Mr. Seward considers it an extraordinary circumstance in the history of such an Empire as China, that she has never attempted to annex either of the small Kingdoms above enumerated, but has remained throughout, their steadfast friend and ally. Interesting particulars are also given of the numbers of Chinese located in the Philippines, in the Netherlands Possessions, in or near the Straits of Malacca, and elsewhere; together with a deal of information relating to the assistance given to immigration into those districts, the control of the Chinese at Singapore, secret societies, the Chinese in Labuan and Coochin-China, and other matters of an equally interesting character.

That we have failed to do anything like justice to Mr. Seward's admirable work we are quite well aware; but the space at our command being limited, we could only touch, and very lightly, upon a few of the many questions which the ex-American Minister has handled so ably. Of course we do not agree with much that he has written; but at the same time we can conscientiously commend a study of "Chinese Immigration" to every person who has the true interests of this Colony at heart, as we think that it will tend to remove a great many prejudices from the minds of those whose acquaintance with the inner life of the Chinese has only been of the most superficial character, and that such a consummation is devoutly to be wished for, must be apparent to the greater portion of our commercial community.

The Spanish steamer Salvadora left the Kowloon Dock yesterday afternoon.

There will be an Emergency Lodge of St. John No. 618 S.O. this evening at 8 for 8.30 precisely.

The German Corvette Fregate, 8, Korvetten Kapitain von Lepel-Gnitz, left for Singapore yesterday morning en route for Europe.

Admiral Lessoffski of the Russian navy, accompanied by Madame Lessoffsky, took his departure yesterday in the French mail steamer Sindh for Europe. The gallant admiral received a parting salute from the Europa on the mail steamer getting under weigh.

If "Mission House" will forward his name and address we shall be pleased to publish his letter. It is not customary to publish in the correspondence columns of a newspaper, anonymous communications which are not properly authenticated.

The comet was again visible last night, but only for a comparatively short time, nor was it anything like so brilliant as on its previous appearance. Seen from the Robinson-road it appeared to be bearing away to the north west, travelling at a tremendous rate. It disappeared from view exactly at 9.25, having been in sight for a little over an hour.

The following is the programme to be performed by the band of the Royal Inniskilling Fusiliers, under the direction of Band Sergeant Hassard in the Botanic Gardens this evening:—

March "H. M. S. Pinafore" ... Sullivan.
Overture "Mirella" ... Gounod.
Selection "Buen-del-Monte" ... Pacini.
Valse "Soldaten Lieder" ... Gungl.
Selection "Torquato Tasso" ... Donizetti.
Valse "Claribel" ... Coote.

The latest phase assumed by the Wei Sing Lottery business promises to lead to rather lively complications. We are informed on the very highest authority that the cheque for $10,000 handed to the Macao Government by Mr. Pitman, as a deposit, after the monopoly was knocked down to his clients, was presented yesterday at the Bank, by an official of the Macao Government, and that, as the cheque was irregular, payment was refused. It appears that the cheque, although properly signed and made out for the correct amount, was simply made payable "to order" and on the ground of irregularity the Bank declined to pay. The Macao official at once waited on Mr. Pitman, and requested him to rectify the omission, but that gentleman, it seems, declined to compromise himself further in the matter until he saw how the whole business was to end. We have no wish to pre-judge a case of this kind, but it is quite apparent that there must be "something rotten in the state of Denmark." That the Macao Government will take immediate action in the matter may be safely assumed, and although H. E. Senhor Graga and his advisers have throughout the whole piece, shown a lamentable want of tact, discretion, and business capacity, we trust, and think, they will get safely out of their difficulty. We are in possession of various other reports respecting this Wei Sing difficulty, but it would hardly be fair to all parties concerned, to publish the same, until they are properly authenticated.

We have received a communication from a correspondent detailing the proceedings of a picnic party of Good Templars at Stanley on Coronation Day. It is too lengthy for our columns, besides being now rather late, and we are consequently compelled to withhold it. We note, however, with much pleasure that a large party seems to have enjoyed themselves in the romantic Chuk Choo (sic) and all returned in a perfect state of sobriety, as became their professed creed, at an early hour in the evening, where further preparations had been made for continuing the celebration of the day. An ample tea, with the usual accompaniments, was provided in the Temperance Hall, and the remainder of the evening was spent in speech-making, enlivened by occasional songs and recitations from members of the various lodges.

LATEST COMMERCIAL INTELLIGENCE.

Friday, July 1st, 1881.

One o'clock P.M.

After a storm comes a calm. The transactions in the Share Market since our last issue have been of the feeblest description. A few small sales of Banks at 10½ have to be noted, but there seems to be little disposition on the part of either buyers or sellers to come up to the scratch at that figure. Docks are of course slightly suffering from the reaction, although the status of the stock in the market has not been materially altered. A few shares, not very many we think, could be secured at 57, and a few transfers have been booked at that price. Sugar shares are weak at 18½, in fact a little persuasion would probably induce holders to "part" at 18½, and even at the last quotation there would be few buyers. Steamboats, which declined a point yesterday, are firm again at 31, and a few shares have changed hands at that price. Hotels are firm at 97½, and no other stocks require special reference.

Assaulting a Chinaman in Newcastle.

Recently at the Police Court, Newcastle-on-Tyne—James Collins, 30, a powerful-looking man, was charged with having been drunk and disorderly in Derwent Place on Saturday night last, and further with having assaulted Fin Bin Jie, a Chinese sailor, in Thornton Street, about half past seven o'clock on the same night.
The prosecutor is one of the men belonging to the steamer at present lying near the works of Sir William Armstrong and Co., at Elswick, and his evidence was interpreted by a good-looking youthful Chinaman also belonging to the same ship. The prosecutor, in his statement, said that he was a sailor on board the ship at present lying in the river at Elswick, and had previously been a soldier.
He never remembered seeing the prisoner until Saturday night, when he came up to him and struck him.
(The witness here gesticulated rapidly and indicated by a movement of his hands to his companion the manner in which he had been struck).
The prisoner struck him on the shoulder, face, and head, and blood came out of his mouth. He had not done anything at all to the man.
The prisoner was fined 40s. and costs for the assault, or one month's imprisonment, and a penalty of 5s. and costs, for being drunk and disorderly would also be imposed. The fines were not paid, and in the evening the prisoner was taken to goal, where he will undergo one month and seven days' imprisonment.

The Chinese Oath in Court.

With regard to the above case the Newcastle Chronicle says:—The oaths taken by Chinamen in courts of law and in criminal proceedings are administered after a saucer has been broken, and the ceremony on Monday was witnessed in the Pilgrim-street Police Court by a crowded attendance of the public. Foreigners and Jews have often to be sworn, and a Hebrew Bible is provided accordingly amongst the properties of the Newcastle bench; but a Chinese witness appears to have been a rarity not even dreamt about in Pilgrim-street, and it was found that, simple as the furnishing for the affirmation is, not a saucer was to be discovered. A policeman was consequently sent to purchase two China saucers, and on his return one of them placed in the hands of the young Chinese interpreter, who, kneeling down in the witness box, attempted to smash it on the edge of the box. British China, however, appeared to be of a much more endurable kind than Chinese, for the interpreter tried again and again, with all his force, for at least seven or eight times, without effecting a smash. When the saucer, however, did give, it was with a sound that went like the loud snapping of a pistol through the building. The pieces flew in a dozen directions, hitting clerks, reporters, and policemen to bow their heads with a sudden and appreciable sense of self-preservation, and no little amusement prevailed in court. The interpreter then repeated after the Clerk (Mr. Wilkinson) the following affirmation or Chinese oath:—“You shall tell the truth, and the whole truth; the saucer is cracked, and if you do not tell the truth your soul will be cracked like the saucer.” The second saucer was handed to the prosecutor, who went through the same form as his shipmate, but being a more powerful man, he succeeded at the second attempt in demolishing the article, though at the expense of a finger severely cut in the operation.

The interpreter had also one of his fingers cut in breaking the article apportioned to him. The unusual method of swearing in witnesses evoked even amongst the officials, present great curiosity and amusement, and as the pieces were scattered over the floor where witnesses and policemen are wont to tread, a crushing, grating noise was heard beneath the feet of those persons—reminding the auditory and justices of the ceremony—long after the ill-used Chinaman and his friends has left the court.

The above case, we believe, is only the second that has been heard in Newcastle, where the Chinese oath has been administered, a native of the Celestial Empire having on a previous occasion been sworn in a similar way at the old Police Court in the Manors.

WALTER SCOTT'S SUNDAYS.—As usual, from Lockhart's furrow we cannot find out the first thing we want to know—whether Scott worked, after his weekday custom, on the Sunday morning.
But, I gather, not; at all events, his household and his cattle rested. I imagine he walked out into his woods or read quietly in his study. Immediately after breakfast, whoever was in the house, “Ladies and gentlemen, I shall read prayers at 11, when I expect you all to attend.” Question of college and other externally unanimous prayers settled for us very briefly—“If you have no faith have at least manners.” He read the Church of England service, lessons and all, the latter, if interesting, eloquently. After the service, one of Jeremy Taylor's sermons. After sermon, if the weather was fine, walk with his family, dogs included, and guests, to cold picnic, followed by short extempore Biblical novelties; for he had his Bible, the Old Testament especially, by heart, it having been his mother's last gift to him.
These lessons to his children in Bible history were always given, whether there was picnic or not. For the rest of the afternoon he took his pleasure in the woods with Tom Purdie, who also always appeared at his master's elbow on Sunday after dinner was over, and drank long life to the laird and his lady and all the good company, in a quinquet of whisky or a tumbler of wine, according to his fancy. Whatever might happen on the other evenings of the week, Scott always dined at home on Sunday; and with old friends, never, unless inevitably, receiving any person with whom he stood on ceremony. He came into the room rubbing his hands like a boy arriving at home for the holidays, his Peppers and Mustards gambolling about him, “and even the stately Maida grinning and wagging his tail with sympathy.” For the Usquebaugh of the less-honoured weekdays, at the Sunday board he circulated the champagne briskly during dinner, and considered a pint of claret each man's share afterward. In the evening, music being to the Scottish worldly mind indecorous, he read aloud some favourite author for the amusement or edification of his little circle. Shakespeare, it might be, or Dryden, Johnson or Joanna Baillie, Crabbe, or Wordsworth. But in those days “Byron was pouring out his spirit fresh and full, and if a new piece from his hand had appeared, it was sure to be read by Scott the Sunday evening afterward; and that with such delighted emphasis as showed how completely the elder bard had kept up his enthusiasm for poetry at pitch of youth, and all his admiration of genius free, pure, and unsuited by the least drop of literary jealousy.” With such necessary and easily imaginable varieties as changed in having Daddy Din-mont or Captain Brown for guests at Abbotsford, or Colonel Manners, Counsellor Pleydell, and Dr. Robertson in Castle-street, such was Scott's habit-ual Sabbath day, we perceive of eating the fat (dinner, presumably not cold, being a work of necessity and mercy—then also, even then, Saint Thomas of Trumbull, hast! thine!) and drinking the sweet, abundant in the manners of Mr. Sontley's cataract of todoro—“Here it comes, sparkling.” A day bestowed with coronations and sops in wine; deep in libations to good hope and fond memory; a day of rest to boast, and mirth to man (as also to sympathetic beast that can be merry), and concluding itself in an orphic hour of delight, signifying peace on Tweed-side, and good will to men, there or far away—always excepting the French and Boney.—John Ruskin, in Nineteenth Century.

RAZORS MOST CAREFULLY RE-SET.

Mr. MOORE begs to recommend his GOGO SHAMPOO WASH to the public as unrivalled by any preparation ever produced for promoting the growth of the hair. The basis of this compound is made of soap root; the natives of the Philippine Islands never use anything else for washing their hair; they are never found bald, and it is quite common to see the females with hair from 5 to 6 feet long. By constantly using this Shampoo WASH as directed, you will never be bald. The proprietor offers the Wash to the public entirely confident that by its restorative properties it will without fail arrest decaying hair. It completely eradicates scurf, dandruff, and cures all diseases of the scalp. It does not contain any poisonous drugs. By its cooling properties it allays the itching and fever of the scalp, which is the great cause of people losing their hair.

Mr. MOORE has succeeded in being able to put this wash up in bottles without allowing it to ferment, and he will guarantee it to keep any length of time in any climate.
